Re: St. Jean, Carlo
Dkt. #: 2:10-148 (SRC)(1)
Request to Modify Special Conditions of Supervised Release

Dear Judge Chesler:

On November 29, 2011, the above-mentioned offender was sentenced by Your Honor on a charge of aiding and abetting the preparation materially false income tax returns. He was ordered to serve six months custody, followed by a two year term of supervised release. Special conditions imposed were: six months home confinement, self employment/business disclosure, occupational restrictions (refrain from employment as a income tax preparer ) and cooperate with the internal revenue service. A special assessment was also imposed.

Mr. St. Jean began his term of supervised release on June 29, 2012. His location monitoring period started on July 9, 2012.

On August 8, 2012, during a home visit the offender seemed distraught, when questioned he informed this officer his fiancé admitted to infidelity, while he was in custody. He added they have discussed separating, but are concerned about the negative effect it could have on their children. St. Jean began crying, then stated he was emotionally upset about being away from his family throughout his custodial term, and considered suicide. He went on to state these thoughts no longer exist, since being released from custody. On September 10, 2012, during another home visit the offender was questioned about his relationship with his girlfriend and his mental status, with him responding he is having difficulty moving past her having an affair. When questioned further the offender stated he is not motivated to do anything, with him not being assertive in establishing clients for his travel agency, increasing his finances or filing his amended tax returns. Its is important to note initially this meeting was conducted in low light giving this officer the impression the offender was suffering with depression, and his mental state seeming abnormal. St. Jean constantly kept rehashing his distrust for his fiancé. The offender was advised a letter would submitted to the court requesting he participate in mental health counseling, because of his suicidal thoughts and depression.

Based on these facts, we are now recommending that Mr. St. Jean's special conditions of supervised release be modified to include mental health treatment. The offender is in agreement with our recommendation, and has signed the enclosed, Form 49, Waiver of Hearing. If the Court agrees with our recommendation, please sign the attached Form 12B.

If Your Honor have any questions, or requires more information, please contact the undersigned officer at 973-223-0694.

Respectfully submitted,

WILFREDO TORRES, Chief
U.S. Probation Officer
